

PRIVACY POLICY

The House of Aesthetics website and its owners proactively approach user privacy. This website will never sell your personal information. We leverage cookie-based technology to enhance the website experience and to group users into re-marketing audiences who have previously expressed an interest in our business by accessing key pages throughout our website. We do not collect any personally identifying information with this cookie.